Dec 30, 2020GOLDEN GATE — The City Council has unanimously approved a proposed horse-racing track at the Golden Gate site at the center of the real estate dispute between the Trump Organization and the Giants. The council's action Tuesday was seen by many as a major victory for the Giants, and one that sets a strong precedent for the city to negotiate real estate issues with major sports teams. The Trump Organization and the Giants have been battling over the site of the track since the billionaire owner of the New York Mets purchased the property in December 2012 for $200 million. Trump Hotels and Casino Resorts, the company's hotel and casino operations division, has made it clear that it wants to build a resort hotel and casino on the site. This proposed track at the Golden Gate site, shown on Google Maps. The council approved a conditional-use permit for the track and its operation at Golden Gate and will now negotiate a land-use agreement with Trump Hotels and Casino Resorts. Trump Hotels and Casino Resorts has already purchased the site of the track, and plans to build its first five-star hotel and casino resort in Las Vegas at the site of the city's defunct Fremont Street Experience. In the city's proposal, the developer would contribute $4 million toward the planned citywide entertainment venue called "Giants, Inc." The Trump Organization has been demanding that the city reimburse the property it has already spent on the site, but the council said that was not a key issue for it, because the developer and the city can negotiate. The council said it would pay Trump only for any damages to the public or private property, not for the company's other expenses. "This approval is a huge, huge victory for the Giants and New York City," said Bill Diamond, executive director of the New York City Restoration Project, which advocated for the track and the city's attempt to build a racino at the site. "This is the first time in the city's history that the City Council and the mayor have approved a real estate project that involved a sports team's right to play in the community," Diamond said. "This is a sign that the city has no intention of backtracking from this direction and is more willing to work with a professional sports franchise." Trump, who is facing the 2d92ce491b
