

Note It is recommended that you refer to [Kaggle Notebooks](which is a free online platform that allows for interactive computations and sharing of data. The following steps outline the process of deploying the machine learning model on the AWS Cloud:

- * Activate the Data pipeline by selecting `aws_data_pipeline` from the service type drop-down. This activates all the services and components as shown in the following image: To ensure that you are using the latest version, activate the `last-updated-pipeline` flag.
- * The next step is to create a cluster named `EMRCluster``.
- * For security, select `secure cluster` under `Create a cluster with master and service accounts enabled``.
- * Click on `create cluster` as shown in the following screenshot: Ensure that you enable the `SecureCluster` flag before you create the cluster.
- * Once the cluster is created, we will now proceed to create the `Master role`.
- * Select the cluster name and the zone. Note that the role can be created using either `master.sh` or `emr_describe_role` command.
- * Once the `Master role` is created, we will use the `emr_create_cluster_role`` command to create the `Service role`.
- * Next, we will be creating the `container image` for the machine learning model. Ensure that the `Image type` is set to `Codedeploy` and the `Role ARN` is set to the service role. The `Codebase` will depend on the language you are using. Once the image is created, you can refer to the following link for the documentation on how to create a container image:
