Today we had another great day - we went and finished up our last "room" in the basement and I worked on my first sewing project of the year - a pillow for my son. It turned out great. Then today we went to the library and then to the movies. I'm not sure why we chose to see Bridesmaids but it was hilarious! We are trying to figure out what to do on our next vacation. Maybe we'll just stay home! Our neighbor, Thomas, had his three-year checkup today and he did well. He's up to 62 pounds and still has many teeth in his head. That should be considered a success in any lifetime! He's a happy little guy and he has gained weight on diet and exercise. I love his happy face! He likes to play with Sophie (the pug) and Boo, and the dolls and trucks on the playroom floor. He likes to be near the big kids and when he gets to sit on the big kids laps it's a big deal. We will be visiting again on Wednesday at 5:30 pm and next Monday, August 31st, at 10 am for a weekly checkup. This is the time of year when we are invited to attend the

Open House and our community in West Milton welcomes us to enjoy their church services, food, fellowship, music, etc. It's a blessing to me to be able to get to know our neighbors and many of them I'd like to call friends. I'll be posting our activity this week. We just went on a hike at Hopewell Valley and this is where we decided to stop. It was an adventure! This is Boo (the dog) and I discovered this wonderful park where we can take a hike and find lots of wooded areas for our dogs to run

A mainstay of the mid-1960s television comedy, “My Mother the Car” was a precursor to “The Dick Van Dyke Show.” The cleverly-named best-selling 1962 book “We’re On Our Way to Crazy,” about the last days of a Republican congressman, had been turned into a 1966 movie directed by Mike Nichols. The 1970 film, which starred Carl Reiner, Mary Tyler Moore, and Carl Reiner, Jr., was a precursor to the iconic “Mary Tyler Moore Show.” “Crazy” served as inspiration for the 1970s-era hit “The Mary Tyler Moore Show,” which starred Mary Tyler Moore and Ted McGinley, among others. And author Don Fehr, who wrote the book, would go on to pen the screenplay for “The Mary Tyler Moore Show,” which was the first show to win the Emmy for Outstanding Comedy-Variety or Music Series. The 1970 film also featured actors and actresses who would go on to appear on the sitcom that changed the course of television: Dick Van Dyke, Carl Reiner, and Mary Tyler Moore. “My Mother the Car” was an hour-long comedy show on the DuMont Television Network that aired on Wednesday nights at 9 p.m. in September and October of 1965. The show was a precursor to “The Dick Van Dyke Show,” which ran on NBC for five seasons from 1961-1966 and which was set in a “semi-sophisticated” version of Los Angeles. The sketch comedy series began with Dick Van Dyke playing a hapless, wife-beating car salesman named Carl. The show’s title comes from the best-selling 1962 book about Carl’s dysfunction, “We’re On Our Way to Crazy.” In “My Mother the Car,” Carl had a hapless wife named Carol, a meddling mother-in-law named Minnie, and a mousy secretary named Bessie. The premise of the show was that Carl was always driving his 1951 Plymouth to the 2d92ce491b
