Bareass Bleeds. In this game, the player uses the controller to control the character and the paddle to make Lily lash out and cry. The PC version released on June 5, in the UK on June 8, in Japan on June 9, and in North America on June 10.

Players use the controller to make Lily cry out, with ten emotions ranging from sadistic laughter to anger to calmness. When Lily does cry out, the player can make her cry out in rhythm with the beat of the song, or with a spooky beat to make her cry out at a faster rate or longer duration. The player can also make her cry out in multiple ways, such as as a scream, or through bursts of tears or laughter. "Lily" is a fusion of two characters, the eponymous "Lily", and a flower. At the start of the game, Lily is tied up by the player and the player can begin to tickle and tease her in this form. At points throughout the game, the player will switch to the form of a rose, which Lily gets on her knees to give the player a blowjob, after which Lily will masturbate herself. After that, Lily will continue to tickle and tease the player while the player can make her cry out. The player then gives Lily a toy to suck on to continue. After the toy is done, the player can switch to the last form of the game, which is as an egg. As

Praise the Lord and let us sing praises to God, to the Son of his handmaid, to Jesus Christ, the great King of lords, to whom is majesty, to whom is power, to the Holy One of Israel, our father, to Jesus Christ, because he loved us and set us free.
