A: Your device has no camera and does not have a 4GB RAM and 1GB ROM as you assume. It has 2.1inch LCD with 1024x768. It probably is also XP based. To solve the problem you need to boot into Windows Recovery Console. Go into Start Menu > Windows recovery console. It will boot you into it. Now, just as Windows already did, it will attempt to change the RAM. When this is done, it will be replaced with new RAM of your desired size. Reboot. Now you will have 4GB of RAM and 1GB of ROM, but the installed OS will be XP Home. If you do not like this, there is an option to install XP Pro. You can also use the original XP CD to install it. I'm not sure if this will solve your problem or not. You will need to try. Heidi Klum Celebrates Saving Porcelain Bathroom — DASH! Heidi Klum gave bathtubs a major makeover recently — and posted about it on Twitter! The "Project Runway" host has been showing off her refurbished bathroom on various social media pages and says she wants her friends to know the real-life quality of her bathroom."After all, a bath is only as good as the vessel you put it in," she posted to her Twitter account on April 18.She also shared a before and after picture of the bathroom's makeover with the caption, "From bath to now...to save lives!" Klum took to the Instagram account of brand bathmaker Poreffessional on April 17 and posted a photo of a bathtub that was on the show's season 15 during a Season 16 taping back in February — and she was excited about the results."I want all my sisters and best friends to know that I've been given a brand-new caldor bath with porcelain and copper accents," she wrote. "I love it so much. Please be aware that the projects on @porcelanabath are 100% authentic."The actress also took to the brand's Facebook account on April 17 and shared the same picture as well as a photo of herself with a troweled-on smile after seeing her new bathroom come to life.The Poreffessional USA website also shared a pic of Heidi Klum's

I'm testing it with Windows 7 64 bit and Internet Explorer 9. The drivers are successfully installed: A: Well, the first thing I would do is to put aside the /Driver install, since it would be totally useless in this case. Instead, you're going to need the Windows equivalent of Rufus, which is called the USB Image Writer. Rufus (a free application) can be downloaded here: With it, you can write any .iso file to any USB stick. I guess that the easiest way to install a Firefox 4 add-on would be to extract it and run the files from the resulting folder. You should install Rufus, then a Firefox extension called Hide my face (YouTube Video Protector). It's easier because you don't need to deal with any ".exe" files.
