To investigate the hypothesis that angiotensin-converting enzyme (ACE) inhibition ameliorates cardiovascular diseases by restoring insulin signaling, we studied the effects of glucose deprivation on vascular smooth muscle cells (VSMC). Confluent cultured rat aortic VSMC were preincubated with glucose-free medium for 16 h, followed by culture for 6 h in the presence of the ACE inhibitor captopril.

Glucose deprivation decreased the intracellular content of ATP and GTP, and also decreased the phosphorylation of the ERK protein. These data suggest that ACE inhibition restores energy metabolism in vascular smooth muscle cells.
