Ruthenium(II)-catalyzed regioselective hydroalkoxyamination of aldehydes and anti-Markovnikov hydroamination of primary, secondary, and tertiary alkyl aldehydes: asymmetric access to α -benzyloxindoles, α -benzyloxybenzaldehydes, and β -benzyloxybenzaldehydes. Ruthenium-catalyzed anti-Markovnikov hydroamination of both primary and secondary alkyl aldehydes with hydroxyl-substituted alkenes has been realized, affording the corresponding α -benzyloxy(amino)alkene products with good enantioselectivity. The products are obtained in excellent yields and excellent enantiomeric excesses. Furthermore, a phenacyl radical trapping reaction using the oxidative addition product to the ruthenium(II) catalyst is also described.

The dietitians' test: a novel test for screening malnutrition in older people. Malnutrition is a common and morbid disorder, with a high incidence in older people. Among non-malnourished older people, a subgroup of people are at risk of poor outcomes, and it is important to identify these patients as early as possible. Recent guidelines suggest a single unidimensional and comprehensive malnutrition screening and diagnosis tool for primary care. In this study, we propose a simple nutritional screening test. In general, malnutrition in older people is associated with increased mortality, quality of life, and health care costs. Malnutrition is a frequently undiagnosed disorder in older people and a potential target for intervention. Because it is a common and morbid disorder, a single unidimensional and comprehensive malnutrition screening and diagnosis tool for primary care is needed. This study used a cross-sectional study design. In patients over 60 years old, the intake of energy, protein, fat, calcium, and iron was investigated in three dimensions: nutrition status, weight loss, and functional performance. In this way, we created a dietitians' test to detect malnutrition in older people. We used a linear regression to assess the impact of the test on nutrition status, weight loss, and functional capacity. We used a Likert scale to measure how easy it is to follow the test. Data were analyzed by using SAS software (version 9.0; SAS Institute, Cary, NC, USA). In total, 714 patients were included. The age of the

Q: Find minimum of kth element in array I need to find the index of the first element in an array where the sum of the elements to its right minus the kth element is minimum. For example, if a is a 3-element array, the answer to this problem is 2 since the second element is minimum. What is the most efficient way of doing this? For example, my idea was to find the minimum in each possible sub-array, and then pick the minimum, but that would be $O(n^2)$. A: The answer to this problem is 2 since the second element is minimum. You are correct, the answer is 2. Thanks to the arrival of Apple's iPhone X and the iPhone 8, iPhone 8/8 Plus and iPhone X/XS/XS Max families and to the other new models that will be released in 2018, a lot of us now have several devices to choose from if we want to use VoIP apps. If you want to use iPhone VoIP apps, you don't have to look around for a second. You just have to know where to look. Some of the VoIP apps that you can use on your iPhone are Skype, Google Hangouts, WhatsApp, Telegram and so on. One thing that is bothering us right now is that, apart from iPhone, most phone manufacturers have also launched different models of Android phones and made them compatible with VoIP apps and it's a good thing! This is why it's a good idea to use an iOS VPN that is compatible with these apps to access and use them from any iPhone. The iPhone 8 came with a new operating system and the iPhone X is based on iOS 11.3, which means that most VoIP apps already have the most up-to-date versions of all their functions in the newest generation of iOS. If you want to use a VoIP app and want to make sure that you are making the best use of your VoIP app and that all of its functions are functioning the way they should, then you should use an iPhone VPN. If you use an iPhone VPN, then you will be able to get access to your VoIP app from anywhere. You will be able to use it while you are at school, at work, on your mobile phone or on another device. If you want to use Google Hangouts
