You can get started by creating an account with untapped.gg so you can unlock your personal profile and you are ready to find the best decks for your playstyle. Comes with a tracker and helps you build better decks Once you have downloaded the app, create an account on the developer's official website and connect using the app. It is important to note that the program does not have a deck builder, but it is rather a deck tracker where you can get statistics to help you improve your current combos. Therefore, if you need to find better decks faster and more convenient, you should consider synchronizing your collection with the Companion app. The highlight of the tool is the deck tracker that permits you to plan your next moves based on the decks of your opponents. According to the developer, the program comes with an Opponent's revealed cards feature so that you know what cards were played and anticipate the next move. At the same time, the app can come in handy when building a Limited deck faster, thanks to the integrated expert card ratings. Enables you to visualize your personal statistics and opponent's cards In adding to helping you get the best decks, the tool displays personal statistics so that you can get an idea about how well you are doing. Simply put, you can determine the efficiency of a deck based on matchup statistics, performance data or a ladder progression chart, for example. According to some users, the app is still lacking some handy features that other more established apps include and hence, it would be a good idea to combine untapped.gg Companion with other tools that include other

Untapped.gg Companion [Updated]

untapped.gg Companion is an app that is available on both the Google Play Store and the Apple App Store. The developer behind the app is Todd Miller, who has been working on the companion app since last year. Although it is a beta app for Android, the developer states that the app is still in progress and has not been fully tested. However, the app comes with a wide variety of statistics and features that can give you an insight on the performance of your deck. Moreover, it provides you with some tools to help you understand your meta. The tool has a deck tracker, expert card ratings, opportunity cards and a show card library. You can learn how to create decks, build and manage decks, get to know your opponent's cards and keep track of your own performance. untapped.gg Companion Features: You can get started with the app by creating an account on the developer's official website. In doing so, you can unlock your profile and access your statistics. You can also learn more about the apps. For instance, you can keep track of your deck collection by learning the total percentage of decks you have in your collection. When you are ready to get the most out of the app, you can sync your collection with the app to see an overview of your decks and matchups. With the application, you can get a better understanding of your opponents. For instance, you can see how many decks you need to beat your opponents. Moreover, the app has a section that shows you what they revealed. However, it can be confusing since the app only displays the cards that the opponent revealed. The developer states that it is a bug. To get a better sense of your matchups, you can look into the expert card ratings of the app. You can also get to know the additional cards that you can play with the cards you already have in your collection. This is a useful feature since you can determine what cards you should add or remove from your decks. Another cool feature of the app is the ability to look into the opportunity cards in your collection. This can help you plan your next moves faster. It is important to note that the app does not come with a deck builder. You can create your own decks and manage them on your own. However, the tool does not include a search engine. You can get more information about your collections by clicking on the collection option. The app can come in handy when creating a limited deck, especially if you want to be prepared for a tournament. To add
