It works with any pdfTeX. It can convert a single file or all the pdfs at once. Edit your Tex files with LaTeX2docx and when you are ready to go to pdf files. This version is about 0.9.0. You can download it from here: Enjoy. A: I think the fastest approach is using python. You need to use pyPdf. Install it using the following command: pip install pyPdf The usage is: from pyPdf import PdfFileReader def convert_to_pdf(file_to_convert): pdf = PdfFileReader(file(file_to_convert)) pdf.save(file(file_to_convert, 'pdf')) pdf.close() The file_to_convert parameter can be a directory or a string containing a file name. A: On Windows, for one file you can use PS2PDF. PS2PDF can convert PostScript documents (PS) to PDF format, or PDF to PS documents (PDF). To convert many files at once, use the command-line tool PDFtex. Pancake Breakfast is now only a few weeks away!
