Breadcrumbs are used to provide a functional and visual navigation from the home page of your site to pages deep in your site. In addition, breadcrumbs are a good way to give a user an overview of the hierarchy of pages at your site. There is a huge advantage for your site since you will see that the number of the pages is extremely convenient, keeping an overview is simple and easy as well. However, the major thing is you may need the help of an expert to get the best result. Otherwise, there will be some problem to add breadcrumbs to your website. If you want to do it yourself, you need to understand this tutorial well. #1 Make sure to put 'position:relative' to the upper container This will be a theme that changes the margin of your main container to a fixed position of your site. It should consist of an upper container and a lower container. After this, you can add a middle container in the middle of your site to put your breadcrumbs. #2 Add a lower container and add position:absolute to it You should add a container for your breadcrumbs in the bottom of the whole site. #3 Set the placement of your site header and footer on the same position with a margin of 1 pixel #4 Set the breadcrumbs container's position and margin
