We use .[Prevalence of dermatophytoses in the dermatology service at the El Lagardere Hospital of Madrid]. The aim of this study was to analyse the epidemiological distribution of dermatophytoses and to study a possible change in these values in recent years. A descriptive, retrospective study of the data for the period 2007-2010 from the medical files of patients attended in the Dermatology Department of El Lagardere hospital. A total of 35,531 patients attended were studied in the period 2007-2010. A total of 2,818 patients were diagnosed for the dermatophytoses with an incidence of 9.21%. Our data showed a significant increase in the number of patients diagnosed with those fungi and a significant reduction in the prevalence of tinea pedis and tinea corporis in the last two years. Our results show a tendency to a decrease in the number of patients with tinea cruris and to an increase in the cases of tinea pedis.Q: WindowsServer 2008 not letting me move the label This is driving me crazy. I'm trying to move a Windows Server 2008 label from one place to another. I right click and choose "move" from the context menu. I can drag the right clicking object to the new location. However, when I release the object, nothing happens. I think it's getting stuck trying to draw the line, so I give it a second, but still nothing. Why doesn't it move it? Is there a reason it might be doing this? A: Try using ctrl + click to start the dialog. So instead of left clicking on the label, the left mouse button clicks and drags the label to a new location.
