Someone posted a very interesting (and very pleasing) link on a message board as a comment to another post. A few days later I saw the link posted as a blog comment, on his site. I had not even read that person's blog in months! And certainly not his site. I wonder if these types of things happen to anyone else? At any rate, I'm posting this on my own blog to see what other people think. The incidence of infantile gastric dilatation-volvulus (GDV) is 0.5/1000 live births. The disorder is associated with a mortality rate of 40-100% and a morbidity rate of 50-90%. The major risk factors are gastric outlet obstruction, failure of the gastrostomy site to close, and gastric distention. The primary diagnostic criteria are clinical and consist of (1) torsion of the stomach with air-filled loops and multiple air-fluid levels, (2) a clenched fist appearance on the air-filled stomach, and (3) rapid decompensation after gastroscopy. Different therapeutic options are discussed with an emphasis on prevention. The results of prevention regimens include (1) gastrostomy site closure, (2) preterm rupture of fetal membranes (in the presence of a gastrostomy) or early neonatal intensive care, and (3) gastrostomy bag reinforcement.Q: Linux: How to reverse all TCP traffic coming in to a machine Just a quick question; I'm trying to write a script that will receive all the TCP traffic coming into the machine and find out which ones are arriving from a certain server, then send TCP traffic to a specific server on the other side, which would be forwarded to the same destination.
