ME-Mydoc Free Download Latest

The product ME-Mydoc - a powerful organizing tool, to organize information in multiple forms, which you store and organize in the program. The application allows you to quickly and efficiently access and display content stored in various forms. Using ME-Mydoc you can quickly search for any information stored in any file type. The application can display and edit the embedded code, AsciiMath, in various documents. You can add multiple documents to one entry, add bookmarks and save the documents as HTML files. In addition, users can insert notes and books into a single document, using templates best suited for each type of data. You can also display all notes and books attached to a single entry. ME-Mydoc is divided into three main categories - documents, notes and books. Within each category, you can view, search for, and organize various types of data. You can view the description of the document, the list of authors, the note's tag list, a calendar of modifications and the information concerning the security restrictions. Such information, available in the application, provides a high level of security for your information, while easily locating it. The application does not allow you to perform searches by any specific criterion. It is possible to browse through the categories using the TreeView and the content by the Jump Tree or the TreeView. You can add a node to any category, rename it and select it. In the category tree, you can choose to show all the objects of a certain category or only the highlighted entries. The overview of the content in a category is presented in a floating window. Files and folders, which you add to the program as documents, are added to a specific folder. You can select a document or folder and choose to move it to another location. The document's size, file type and security options can be defined in the file manager. ME-Mydoc allows you to create tables with various layouts for the displayed data. In the program, it is possible to replace the data in a table using the advanced search, where you select the column and then the row. The reordered data can be saved as a new table or copied. The maximum capacity for the entry is 150 characters. Each document contains a list of the documents that were added to it. You can delete a single document or all the documents in the entry. The number of tags you add in each document is limited to 40. The application supports the display of AsciiMath. A document is considered "stored" when a version of it is
