Rating distribution by users Features : The game's real-time strategy gameplay is set within the confines of the board game Labyrinth, which, although having you play as a regular dungeon owner, can only be won by playing the final room, which resembles the final hall of a party, hence the game's name. There are various labyrinths to play, each of which will give you special tiles to add to the game board. Every time you win a room, you are awarded labyrinth points (LP). If you win all four rooms in a given labyrinth, then you can collect a gold trophy to the top right of the screen, as well as win yourself a bonus LP. A feature unique to this game is the labyrinth boss. Each boss has a different theme, for example the pig boss who will repeatedly steal the food you lay out to give to your Minotaur. Each boss has a different attack style, for example the pig boss will actually be a pig, whose aim is to knock you out of the game, or the wolf boss will attempt to cut you in two. You're given a whole collection of cards by the game's creators, who get to decide on the themes of each card that you use to try and beat the boss. For example, the Puzzle cards in the game will have a puzzle theme to them, and will require you to move tiles or cards around to get the puzzle together. Other cards have the theme of a classic game, such as The Legend of Zelda, so if you're playing the wolf boss, then you may just need to get enough treasure to buy some arrows. Each card has a different level, which is clearly displayed on the card's screen, 7f20d898dc
