Quando Las Tarantulas Atacan by djseaneThe price of one gallon of unleaded gas in the Midwest has surpassed $4 for the first time since 2006, and is higher nationwide than it has been since October 2007, according to a new report from the Associated Press. High gas prices are a consequence of a slowing economy and the decline in oil prices, the report says, and both those factors are at least partially attributable to unrest in Libya, the country from which most of the country's oil comes. A gallon of gas in the United States normally costs about $3.52, and it recently traded for $3.73 in Chicago, according to the AP's calculations. The national average has shot up about 25 cents since the beginning of November, while a gallon of gas has risen about 50 cents.3H-estradiol binding to human placental cytosol. 3H-estradiol was used as ligand to demonstrate a single class of binding site with a dissociation constant (Kd) of 48 fmol/mg protein. The binding is specific in that no binding could be detected in the presence of 1 microM unlabeled estradiol. The possibility of the presence of estradiol receptor in cytosolic protein fractions from human placenta was examined. Displacement of 3H-estradiol from its binding site was achieved by 0.1 microM E2, progesterone, and diethylstilbestrol. The dissociation constant was 94, 15, and 44 fmol/mg protein respectively. The Kd for E2-binding was also lower in cytosolic protein fractions from human placenta than in those from human breast. The binding of 3H-estradiol in cytosolic protein fractions from human placental cytosol increased slightly during the second trimester of gestation. The binding in cytosolic protein fractions from the placenta increased markedly during labor, and decreased during the second week after parturition. The binding of 3H-estradiol to cytosolic protein fractions from human placental cytosol appeared to be more rapid and greater than that for E2-binding in human breast cytosol. The number of 3H-estradiol-binding sites in cytosolic protein fractions from placenta increases considerably during labor, and the number decreases after the second week of parturition. These results suggest that in the 3e33713323
