

It will have everything you need, probably including drivers and the like. HP has a simple recovery process and replacement policy. If you bought a computer, you will be provided with a set of free applications for a certain period of time. You will have to go through the registration process to get these free apps. When buying a laptop, you may have to agree to additional agreements, but this is usually only a small addition to the price. Most new laptops have a driver download option in addition to the Windows drivers. This information may seem outdated, but it's not.
