This is a very common issue, and support for it is built into the Skype for Business Server deployment infrastructure. A similar issue may arise if the new server needs to join an existing pool of servers (where the pool already contains other Skype for Business Server 2016 installations). Possible causes of these issues include the following: using a DNS suffix from an internal or production domain name; using a beta or test domain name; trying to join the server to a pool that is using a different user name. The other possible causes of an error related to a bad domain name are listed in the following procedures." --- # Unable to join server's domain The most common errors encountered while deploying Skype for Business Server 2016 for the first time to a new server are related to
