The onslaught of the auto show season is in full swing, and with just a few days to go until the North American International Auto Show kicks off in Detroit, I thought it would be a good time to look at the best, and worst, trends of 2013. Best Trends Fuel Efficient Vehicles A number of cars, trucks, and minivans, from every manufacturer are now coming with at least one, if not two, fuel-saving features that are set to take off in 2014. Most notable amongst these are the partial electric-only powertrains found on most new model Fords, the Honda Accord Hybrid, the Chevrolet Volt, Toyota Pri 1cdb36666d

We use the term "scraptricks" as a reference to techniques that are made to look like scrapbooking or cardmaking. However, our techniques are very different than what others offer. We use pre-printed papers, both on page kits and from our own scrapbooking line, (such as different Do It Yourself, animal alphabet letters from a wood alphabet set) and inkjet and dye-sub printers to print the designs for you. We also use this website as a way to showcase techniques that work for the paper crafting community but which we may not feel comfortable sharing on Meritage. Social media users have noticed a pattern of apparent poisoning cases that have occurred in a small group of countries in recent months. Most of the incidents have taken place in the former Soviet republics of Moldova, Ukraine, Azerbaijan and Georgia. Earlier this month, the 23-year-old Belarusian model

The start of the year was nearly as slow for marijuana startups as it was for the rest of the market, and there has been no letup yet. On one hand, you have the January sales tax sales tax bump, which removed a key tax advantage for pot businesses, and one of the final rules for home-growing. On the other hand, retail has also dried up, with a parade of high-profile companies deciding to either pull or significantly delay plans to enter the industry. Even so, starting the year on a low note can be tough for young companies. Today, the cannabis industry is poised to have a very different story to tell a year from now. Marijuana sales tax bump One of the biggest challenges a startup faces when entering the industry is getting established without a strong competitive advantage. Marijuana businesses—with the exception of hemp—have one last major advantage over other businesses: the ability to take sales tax write-offs. Hemp, which will remain a federally illegal crop, is taxed on state level. This gives the marijuana industry an advantage over other businesses, which operate on a federal level. Even accounting for a five percent sales tax in New York State, sales still provide a savings on costs for a business, and even a large company can easily move the load. However, with the recent January tax change, the competitive advantage for marijuana businesses has been removed. After January 1, 2016, organizations that make “manufacturing, cultivating, processing, or transporting” marijuana, will be required to pay state sales tax. Federal law still says cannabis businesses are tax-exempt, but a state law change now makes them liable for state taxes. Even though the state is removing the competitive advantage, it still makes sense for local governments to encourage businesses. States
