There are also many helpful tutorials available on the web that teach you how to use Photoshop — try a search on the Web for 'Photoshop tutorial' or 'Photoshop basics.' All versions of Photoshop work on all operating systems that can access images and design elements through the file format and extension of Adobe's.psd format files. The photoshop file extension extension is.psd and is based on Adobe's own file format. The file format used by Photoshop is similar to that used by Adobe's Illustrator graphic design program for creating images. Keeping track of Photoshop's extensions The extension or file format of a file type can have an impact on how the file works. When you add a new file to your computer or software, the file extension is often listed at the top of the file window. You may need to identify the extension of the file to make sure that you are adding the right file. Photoshop's extensions are listed in the lower-right corner of the window where the source image is located. Photoshop displays all of its extensions in the File menu. You can also access these extensions by selecting `File⇒Properties` and then selecting the Extension (PSD) item on the General tab. As a young professional in the graphic design field, you will want to be aware of the extensions used by various design applications: Adobe Photoshop:.psd CorelDraw:.CDT (for thumbnails) CorelDRAW:.CDR (for actual images) CorelDRAW:.CRL CorelPaintShop:.PSD Corel Photography:.CPX Corel Draw Studio:.CDT CorelDraw Studio:.CDR Corel ArtStudio:.PSD Corel PaintShop Pro:.PSP CorelDRAW:.CRL Artists'RX, MercuryGX:.EPS CorelDraw, Corel PhotoPaint:.CMP CorelDRAW, GraphicConverter:.CDR Corel PaintShop Pro, Corel Photo Paint:.PSP The file extension for.png and.jpg files is.png. You can also see the exact extension as you type in a filename. Identifying image types The most common file types include raster and vector images

, he called as plaintiff in this case. He left the army in 1924 and some years later went into business as a dealer in sugar. He later came back to Coudersport and bought the land which is the subject of this lawsuit. He testified that he paid the amount of $42,500 for the land in two installments. The first payment was made on July 1, 1924, and the balance, amounting to $17,500, was paid on December 1, 1928. The land had been previously deeded to a corporation for the purpose of conducting an orphanage in connection with the Church of the Redeemer. The testimony of the defendant was that Mr. Gordon had been interested in building orphanages all over the country. He testified further that he had sold land to Mr. Gordon. It is a well-established principle that the great weight of the evidence of a landowner is the purchase price as evidence of value. It is in general a strong and convincing rule of evidence. Wertz v. Von Finke, 207 Pa. 602, 56 A. 1033. It would seem that this principle is applicable to the case at bar. The chancellor was aware of the rule and specifically stated in his opinion that the purchase price was entitled to the greatest weight. In view of all the evidence and the many inconsistencies in the testimony of the defendant, we do not feel that his finding was clearly against the weight of the evidence. The appellant contends further that the chancellor erred in admitting into evidence the testimony of the defendant as to the purchase price of the land at the time of the deed and also as to the price of the property in the amount of $42,500. The appellant claims that the admission of this evidence was in violation of the parol evidence rule, and that the sale price paid by the defendant to the corporation was in nowise material as to the fair cash value of the land at the time of the sale. As we have already said the chancellor was fully aware of the rule. He gave to the evidence the weight that he believed it deserved. We find no error in the court's action. The testimony of the defendant was that he had sold property to Mr. Gordon and the defendant further testified that he had made some slight repairs on the property which increased the value of the land some $12,000, or more than one-half its value. The chancellor stated that this testimony was contradicted by the record of sale of the land by the defendant corporation, the defendant
