Photoshop is free for personal use, as it includes a trial license. It costs $299 for the basic version and $399 for the standard version. Adobe Creative Cloud is a $49.99 per month membership that provides all of the features of Photoshop for up to two people.

Photoshop for iOS is a free app that can be used to create, edit, and share images. It supports both RAW and JPG images. If you are an Adobe Creative Cloud subscriber then it's always free for you to install the app. You can upgrade to the premium or app-only version of the app for a yearly fee, starting at $1.99. This tutorial is for macOS.

Linux users can install Wine in order to use Adobe Photoshop. You can always get Photoshop and all of its features in the form of free online services (or subscribe to a monthly service like Creative Cloud), but learning about the tools you need can save you some money and time in the long run. This article will show you how to get Photoshop

The controlled synthesis of polymers from Grignard reagents, i.e. the polymers with a GMA (gem-dimethylalkenyl) group are called poly(methyl methacrylate). The Grignard reagents, i.e. those compounds such as CH_3MgBr and $\text{CH}_3\text{-CH}_2\text{-CH}_2\text{MgBr}$, are effective ethylenically unsaturated polymerization catalysts, and further these Grignard reagents are converted to poly(methyl methacrylate) by dehydration to form vinyl groups, hydrolysis to form methyl groups, and reaction with methacrylic anhydride. Furthermore, the Grignard reagents are also known to be effective alcohol and amine polymerization catalysts. However, such Grignard reagents are difficult to isolate on an industrial scale and some of the Grignard reagents are air sensitive, e.g., CH_3MgBr is stable as a liquid but decomposes to form dust on storage. Therefore, Grignard reagents must be used in an anhydrous solvent, such as benzene, toluene or diethyl ether, and only a limited number of Grignard reagents are available. Also the aqueous polymerizations, e.g., the synthesis of poly(methyl methacrylate) containing hydrophilic monomers are slow. Controlled polymerization of aromatic compounds, such as styrene and similar compounds, is well known in the art. For example, U.S. Pat. No. 4,579,932 discloses arylalkyl magnesiate as polymerization catalysts for the polymerization of 2-methylstyrene, whereas Japanese Patent Disclosure No. 54-154512 describes controlling the polymerization of methylstyrene using arylalkylmethylamides. Both of these polymerizations are accomplished in aromatic solvents. As another example, U.S. Pat. No. 4,504,647 discloses polymerization of olefins using Zn complexed with

1-arylalkyl-3,3-dialkylimidazolines. In this case the catalyst and monomer are combined in the same solvent. Another example, U.S. Pat. No. 4,107,242 describes polymerization of olefins using Zn complexed with the 1-acylamidoalkyl-3-alkyl-3,3-
