I want to have a functionality that, if a user clicks a link, it'll send his/her email address with the message they wrote in the email form. Is it possible to have these mail-to-fax links? A: First, You need to install Ruby Fax gem. Then, you need to configure the Fax app using the following link : I hope it is the solution you are looking for. Q: How to exit mysql CLI I know this has been asked before but I have not found an accepted answer. When I press ctrl+D, it exits my program but MySQL doesn't return anything back to me. EDIT: it's working. A: It depends on the terminal application you're using. Most of them will return a ' ' as the terminator, so you have to type that. On Linux, you would type: > exit In MySQL CLI, it's: > \! A: For mysql 5.5, Here is the command: > prompt Prompt?> or Prompt?> exit A: When I press ctrl+D, it exits my program but MySQL doesn't return anything back to me. If you're using Linux, I recommend you use pgrep to find the PID: $ pgrep -x mysql Then kill the PID, and MySQL should exit automatically and leave you with your prompt again. $ kill -9 1234 This post also gives an explanation of why it works for CTRL+D: The exit code is send to the parent process of a terminal. In this case, it is the shell, so it sends CTRL+D to the shell which in turn will interpret CTRL+D as CTRL+D=EOF. Since the shell will interpret EOF as exit code, then this will exit mysql as well.
