Installation Instructions 1. of his salary on the back end) they would have given him a five-year deal. But as we all know, you get what you pay for in the NFL, so that's all that matters. if you want to say what the Eagles did on the back end of the deal is bad, yeah, they did a terrible job. they gave up a 5th rounder, which is about what they should have got, and some dead money. One of the main reasons why I consider myself a member of the "Pay Players What They're Worth" camp is because the Eagles basically used a comp-job for Vick. They essentially used Vick as an excuse for their cap situation. If they would have left those numbers the way they were in the SIXTH year of DeSean's deal and let Vick have this year, with what the Eagles had to work with, they would have had a better shot at keeping him around. If, however, Vick had had the no trade clause but, like Brown, was willing to take a pay cut to stay in Philly, he still would have been a better long term fit for the Eagles than "The Future" Just my $0.02. John McCann (New Zealand politician) John McCann (6 December 1835 – 28 June 1910) was a New Zealand Conservative Party Member of Parliament and Mayor of Auckland. Early life McCann was born in the Manor of MacCullagh, County Meath, Ireland in 1835. He was the second son and first surviving child of Isabella (née Costello) and James McCann. His father was a member of the Phoenix Company, a merchants' company founded by Dublin merchant John Boyd. His older brother, Bernard, died in 1835. His father later joined the New Zealand Company. The three brothers were sent to Sydney and then in 1840 to New Zealand by the New Zealand Company. Career He and his brother joined the New Zealand Company in 1842. In 1844, the family was at Timaru, where they worked as suppliers to the Company, then known as the Canterbury Association. They returned to New Zealand in 1846, where they farmed in the King Country. His brother was appointed to the New Zealand Company's second survey team. He served as surveyor from 1848 to 1851 and then as acting town surveyor from 1851 to 1852. He was assigned to the work of bringing order to Auckland. He surveyed land near Ponsonby and established the Botanic Gardens in 1858. He was on the Auckland City Council from 1869 to 1870. He was mayor of Auckland from 1880 to 1881 and was a member of Auckland Provincial Council from 1875 to 1879. He was a District Councillor from 1879 to 1885. In 1885, he was elected as the Member of Parliament (MP)
