Brazilian born- American Made- Rafael Nadal has been crowned the men's singles champion at the 2017 Miami Open in Boca Raton, Florida. Some would be happy with their first Open title but it appears Nadal is not. Always gracious in defeat when needed, Nadal congratulated his opponent Sam Ouerrey who won the 2012 Miami Open before losing to him in round one of the 2017 US Open. Both players arrived at the court on different cars as Querrey waited on the side line for his ride to be shown, however Nadal didn't notice and instead opted to sit in his car, which was the same as Querrey's. After his dramatic victory over Tomas Berdych in which he took his first match point when dropped the Indian asset on set point, Nadal received a flood of praise from the crowd and questions about his future were answered. "It's amazing. We have a nice time here in Miami. I'm happy that finally I can have this trophy. It's the year of the women and I feel proud for the women. I like the women's side. I'm not an expert, I like the feel of the ball. I'm not good at relaxing myself, so the women is good. Unfortunately for me I need to play against the men." If Nadal was proud of the Miami Open title, the Miami Marlins mascot was cheering for a different player with his own tennis trophy
