Ninety-nine of the patients were treated with desmopressin and the remaining 43 with placebo. In the group treated with desmopressin, the average blood loss decreased from a pre-treatment value of 1.0 +/- 0.7 L to an average of 0.2 +/- 0.4 L at 5 minutes after treatment (p less than 0.001). This value remained significantly less than the 1.4 L for the placebo group at 5 minutes after treatment, which was administered at the time of the actual attack of posterior epistaxis. A 24-hour post-treatment lumbar blood-pressure reading with desmopressin was found to have a significant correlation with the clinical reaction. There was no adverse reaction to desmopressin in any of the patients. Furthermore, desmopressin did not alter the hemoglobin or hematocrit values, nor did it affect platelet count. #ifndef
