Field of the Invention The present invention relates generally to the field of orthodontics. More particularly, the present invention relates to a method of orthodontic treatment that involves the accurate placement of teeth in relation to each other. Specifically, a method of establishing proper bite relation of the teeth of the lower jaw to the teeth of the upper jaw is disclosed. The method involves the accurate placement of teeth in the lower jaw by first bilaterally leveling the teeth of the lower jaw and then placing the teeth in the lower jaw in the desired positions. The upper jaw is then leveled and teeth in the upper jaw are also oriented or repositioned in the same manner as the teeth of the lower jaw. 2. Description of the Related Art Misalignment and improper bite relation of the teeth in
