Fetus in fetu in a young adult. Fetus in fetu (FIF) is a rare condition in which a complete intrauterine body is contained in a different intrauterine body. The most common localization is in the umbilicus. We report a case of FIF in a 21-year-old pregnant woman. The fetus was diagnosed at 16 weeks' gestation on antenatal ultrasound as containing an unusual intraabdominal tumor. At 22 weeks' gestation, a magnetic resonance imaging scan was performed, which demonstrated a 14 x 8 x 8-cm multilobular intraabdominal mass arising from the liver, with a 8-cm solid intraperitoneal tumor attached to the liver and to the umbilicus. Histopathology confirmed that the intrauterine and intraperitoneal tumors were separate. This condition is rare, and the characteristic abdominal tumors are usually diagnosed in the first half of pregnancy. Therefore, careful ultrasound assessment and magnetic resonance imaging help to confirm and rule out the diagnosis of FIF.
