by STEVEN STEIN. Did you know that. 96 pages.pdf. A few of the photos left out in my initial post are by Rosemary O'Keefe for the Daily Mail. For my money, she has the best walk for speed photos I've ever seen. Monday, January 03, 2007 Saint-Julien-de-l'Hers, France The fun girls took a trip to France this month. They stayed in a fandango type hotel, with cooking facilities, a bar and a lovely pool. I'm pretty sure it was the kind of hotel that writes "R" on the poster instead of "reception." The house is actually four connected dwellings. (this is actually a two-story house, as you can see in the pic.) We spent the majority of our time at the patio level, but we got to tour the upstairs as well. Our hosts took us on a tour of the local community as well. The rest of the time was spent relaxing, swimming and eating. Here are a few pics that I took while there. I think they're all very funny and very French, too, don't you? Stray cat hanging out in front of the ballroom, waiting for the girls to come home. A good way to keep one's dignity at the ready, when a man invites a woman to sit down... And on the patio, below. And finally, here are a few I took of our hostess, Marie-Louise. She's a real character. She turns 70 this year and must be determined to be the last of her line to die. She's the picture of good health and fitness, but she intends to go out in a blaze of glory at the age of 90. Look how great she looks in a cocktail dress. Check out the handbag, too. You bet I'm going to be there when she shuffles off this mortal coil. Dearly, dearly loved friend. 0 comments: Post a Comment Join us on Facebook! Carole's 40s About us Hello.
