Allows you to define the width, height and depth of your page. Why we like it Ruler Description is a free app that allows you to measure text, images and websites, as well as select an area of the screen for placing content. By default, ruler is activated by the double-click of the mouse. You can also create custom shortcuts, for instance to select a specific area with the help of mouse buttons or on-screen keyboard keystrokes. You can even map a key to the shortcut. Apart from the size, you may also change the color of ruler or disable it. It is also possible to configure the title of ruler, the percentage of the page width and height and a timestamp. Easily create a ruler With Ruler Description, you can draw a line across the area in which you want to place content. You can utilize the mouse to precisely define the coordinates. You can also record the document cursor location by holding the left mouse button, and make the ruler show the selected area when you move the cursor. All aspects concerning the application's features are offered to you, in a matter of seconds. However, other than the customization settings, you have no control over the length, width and depth of the ruler. Create a ruler with text and make it resizable What we like about Ruler Description is that it gives you full control of the rulers' appearance. You can set the ruler's width and height in %, mm, px or pt. The text color, font, size and font style can also be customized, while rulers' transparency level can be adjusted. Each of the settings is visible at the bottom of the ruler so they are not hidden on the right side. Draw a line on the document Ruler Description supports placing text anywhere on the page, in a freehand manner. The option 'Insert Text' makes it possible to choose any font, font size and font color to place the text. When you create a text ruler, you can select the color of text and make it blue or white, while the color for the ruler itself can be yellow, green, orange, red or purple. You can also change the font size and font color at the bottom of the ruler, with the ability to automatically expand/contract its width/height. If you want to make your text ruler look like a line across the screen, it is recommended that you select 'Rotate text'

What's New in the?

The ruler is an essential tool in Microsoft Office; it is a feature that helps you when writing long documents or printing straight out on paper. This tool has been around since the very first versions of Microsoft Office and it is still as useful as it used to be. This tool can be extremely helpful when writing any document that you need to reference regularly like Word for your business, Visual Basic, HTML or any other kind of document that needs to have straight lines. The ruler can be used in several ways. It can be placed on the border of the document to have a straight line on the left and right sides of the text. You can also use it to determine the size of a text, like the font or paper dimensions. Using this tool is simple. You can find it on the bottom, left-hand side of the screen, and when you click on it, it will show up with a line on your document. Once you find it, you can drag it to the left or to the right so that you can find the line exactly where you want it. Once you find it, you can continue to write or draw whatever text you want, using the instructions you see on the ruler. The rule can also be used with printouts, or any other kind of paper that has text printed on it. On the top left, you can see a little piece of tape that represents the printed area of the paper. If you find a line that is not straight, you can use the Pen tool to draw another line that you are comfortable with. Once you are done, you can erase it with the Eraser tool, and that's it. Using the ruler to layout your documents is easier than with other programs or writing tools. Macromedia Flash is highly recommended when it comes to creating custom animations and dynamic webpages. Not only it has all the features any specialized graphics application is aiming to have, but it also comes with many powerful features and an impressive set of tools. Creating your own Flash animations and webpages for the Web are as easy as it gets. The great thing is that the application is packed with additional components like great animation effects, an audio player, an image viewer or a page analyzer. There are a lot more effects and tools included, allowing you to create more than you can even imagine. The application always
