What's New In Color Gradient Photoshop Download?

The present invention relates to applicator devices for forming cylindrical layers of a material on a surface. In a preferred embodiment, the layer formed on a substrate is a layer of adhesive tape. FIG. 1 is an exploded view of a typical dispensing apparatus for applying strips of adhesive tape. This dispensing apparatus has a housing 10 mounted to the back of a table 18. The housing 10 supports a tape cartridge 12 having a plurality of strips of adhesive tape 14 wound around a spool 16. A follower roller 14a, which is mounted within the cartridge 12, contacts the top of the adhesive tape 14. A movable arm 40 has an arm shaft 42 to which are attached a spool 44 and a drive sprocket 46. The sprocket 46 engages the spool 44 to rotate it, thereby uncoiling the adhesive tape 14 from the spool 16, pulling it through the housing 10, and causing the follower roller 14a to advance and force the adhesive tape 14 against the substrate 18. The sprocket 46 is moved by a drive motor (not shown). FIG. 1 is not drawn to scale. In a typical embodiment, the housing 10 has a length of about one meter. The sprocket 44 has a diameter of about three inches and a length of about 1.5 inches. The spool 16 has a diameter of about ten inches, and there are about 1,500 strips of adhesive tape 14 per spool 16. The spool 16 is rotated by the sprocket 44 through an angle of about 120 degrees. A one-meter application of the adhesive tape 14 is typically divided into 120 strips, each of which is about 0.016 inches wide and about 0.032 inches long. The adhesive tape 14 is pulled from the spool 16 through the housing 10 and is prevented from being rewound onto the spool 16 by a one-way clutch (not shown) in the bottom of the housing 10. The housing 10 has a frustoconical side wall 20, as shown in FIG. 1, and a top wall 30. The tape cartridge 12 can be inserted into the housing 10 through an opening 32 in the top wall 30. The adhesive tape 14 is pulled from the spool 16 through the opening 32, a slot 34, the housing 10, and the nozzle 46a. A problem with the above dispensing apparatus is that as the adhesive tape is pulled from the spool 16, it tends to stick to the sprocket 46. Over time, the tape
