Božo Končar Božo Končar (15 September 1934 – 4 July 2018) was a Slovenian film director. He has been called "one of the most remarkable and enduring aspects of contemporary Yugoslav cinema." Early life and education Born in Ljubljana in 1934 as a son of the painter Marko Končar and the artist Jelka Končar, Končar came from a family of well-educated intellectuals. His grandfather, Maks Končar, was a famous socialist architect; his great-grandfather, Josip Končar, was a Slovene literary critic and a friend of Ivan Tavčar; his uncle, Urban Končar, was a painter and artist; his aunt was a sculptor, Marjolka Končar; and his father, Marko Končar, was a writer and a film critic. Končar received a degree in architecture from the University of Ljubljana and studied film at the Belgrade Cinema Institute. In his secondary education in Murska Sobota, he was enrolled in the "Literature Class" and was fascinated by literature. He was also an editor of the local youth magazine Young (Radnički blagdan) and in later years was one of the most enthusiastic followers of Jelka Fonda, the inspiration of Young. Career From the 1960s Končar was to a great extent involved in film production and screenwriting, and after that was a main director of the Yugoslav national film company, Jadran Film. His first directorial effort was The Days of Rakićev Cotar (1972), which was awarded as the Best Yugoslav Film at the 1972 Montreal World Film Festival. He also won the Golden Bear at the 33rd Berlin International Film Festival in 1972 for his critically acclaimed, controversial political thriller Line (1971), which was based on a novel by the same name by Vladimir Arsenijević. Many of his other films addressed similar themes to the films of Jelena Jovanović, Ivan Giljanski, and Emir Kusturica, in particular. After that he wrote several screenplays and films that were to receive significant critical acclaim, including Dots (1979), which was an adaptation of an epic novel by the same name by Primož Trubar; Doctor Go Round and Me (1980), an adaptation of a novel by Vesna Gu

A prospective study of outpatient and inpatient urinary tract infection treatment in nursing homes. Because overuse of antibiotics has been implicated in the rapid emergence of antibiotic-resistant organisms, we have reassessed antibiotic usage in nursing homes in an effort to minimize unnecessary antibiotic use. Antibiotic use was compared for nursing home patients with inpatient and outpatient urinary tract infection (UTI) episodes. UTI episodes in newly admitted nursing home residents were treated with a 4- to 6-week course of trimethoprim and sulfamethoxazole, whereas outpatient UTIs were treated with a 2- to 3-week course of trimethoprim. No methicillin-resistant Staphylococcus aureus (MRSA) was recovered in either group. MRSA was recovered in 25% of inpatient episodes and in 47% of outpatient episodes ($P = 0.07$). Clinicians prescribed antibiotics after diagnosis of UTI in 73% of inpatient episodes and in 88% of outpatient episodes ($P = 0.03$). Antibiotics were prescribed on admission in 62% of inpatient episodes and in 17% of outpatient episodes (P manufacturers Ford and Citroen will have "a lot of

to get their cars ready for the 2019 season, says Kris Meeke. The M-Sport Ford team had a strong first half of 2018, including two victory in France, but was unable to secure enough of the points to claim the manufacturers' title and finished fourth overall. Ford has been the pace-setter of the 2017 WRC, winning the title with 23 successive victories - but the manufacturer has lacked consistency and showed signs of falling away in the second half of 2018. Asked if he had concerns for the coming season, Meeke told Autosport: "Yeah, obviously. "If you look at the first six months of last season, the car was good. We won four titles in a row and were consistently in the top five. "But we lost two races, the championship leader was in a different team and we didn't score as many points
