and then there are a handful of covers that are just amazing. these are obvious high end cover artists. it doesnt matter who is playing the music on the album. the amazingness of these covers speaks for itself. these are the covers where you notice the artists are clearly on a mission. maintaining a certain look, a certain energy and a certain personality. often it is a one off which is seen as even more impressive because it is rare to see a designer who does this consistently throughout his or her career. usually the artist is seen as over the top, or just plain crazy, but in these cases the covers speak for themselves. often the artist is high profile. there was a time when the uk had a whole crop of really great and innovative cover artists, but its hard to say the same for the us. i love the art that rick baker made for the first three pink floyd albums. its amazing how he made the album art of a bunch of people who knew nothing about making album covers. he made these things up as he went along. how cool is that! there is something really special about the uk music scene. there were dozens of great innovative cover artists at the time. the rest of the world still lags behind because they are too stuck in the 80s and dont understand what they have missed out on. recently one of my friends was telling me about the classic covers of the beatles by hipgnosis. he said that they were amazing and that i should look into it. of course i did. i had no idea what the first album was called and found this one here. i read it in the back of the book and i just knew that the cover was going to be amazing. then i heard that storm thorgerson was the designer. i had no idea he was the one responsible for so many of these amazing covers, and i had no idea that he was the person who did the cover for star wars, a film i actually liked. i have seen some of his work and it looks amazing. if anyone

isnt aware of storm thorgerson and his work, i would recommend you look it up. he was one of the most influential graphic designers of all time. he had a way of taking the most mundane and banal items and turning them into something absolutely brilliant. this has even been captured in a warner brothers cartoon.

another of hipgnosis work i really liked was the pink floyd covers. they were really innovative, and some of the most influential cover art of all time. the fact that the band and their management were not happy with the idea of having their own design team is a testament to hipgnosis. they took their ideas and made them happen. its not often that you see that in the music business. it is almost unheard of, and certainly unheard of in the uk. my favorite album cover is the new riders the adventures of panama red by the grateful dead. i can still remember when i was a kid opening up this album for the first time. i had no idea what to expect, but i was instantly captured by this cover. ive always remembered this album cover since then. i like the bowie album covers, and i love the who do my image, the dead are the ultimate band/hero in my opinion and theyve got the best albums. i like the whole era, the stones' "sat" era, the beatles "white album" era, the dr.who era (the real one) and the pink floyd era. i like the olden days of rock n' roll. i don't know if this album cover has anything to do with the content of the album. it just looks cool, and its a good cover. its also the first album cover i remember getting. i was definitely a kid. i also have a bunch of other albums from this era on vinyl. this was the first one i bought. i think my mother gave it to me. this is an album i have listened to a lot and i still like it. it is very unique in the way it looks. the band is always a creative bunch and this album cover is one of those albums that has a great song to match. 5ec8ef588b
