if youre a fan of the hugely popular undertale mod, youll be happy to know that it has been updated to version 0.1! undertale is a fun take on the battle-royale genre, and theres a lot of things to play with if youd like to check it out. the most obvious change in this version is a new character creator that allows you to tweak your character a lot more, but there are also improvements to the core gameplay, sound, and ui. there are also a few new items to try out, like the new regen, enchantment, and time bomb items. to be honest, its not really a new game in itself, but if youre interested in trying out undertale, you can get it from the main page of the creator. and then there are the more minor changes you can make with the creation kit. if youre looking to alter some of the terrain in skyrim, you can do so with the different elevation options, such as plains, hill, mountain, desert, river, and sea. you can also change the overall colour of the terrain. keep in mind that you cant select any part of the map that has water on it, so you wont be able to turn the ocean blue or do anything useful like that. you can also change the colour of the rocks and trees, and the shape of the terrain. you have options for each, from no change to full change. there are also options for mountains, and plains. you can also change the surface textures of each of the various types of terrain, and the change options are the same as for the elevations. the last two options are a bit more useful. one of them lets you hide any npcs that you dont want to see - just like in fallout 4. the other lets you adjust your viewpoint. you can tilt it to the left or right, and its useful for battle-royale play, where you often look around corners. just remember that you need to put the cursor in the proper spot to be able to change it.

i don't know why, but i have never really noticed, but the way some npcs in skyrim look has always bugged me. i am a girl and i am sure that some women can find some women in skyrim who look like this, but i have never seen any npc who looked like this, so i decided to do something about it. my favorite one is the one that changes the hair color to whatever color you want, and you get to choose the color of the skin and eyes. it doesnt have much more, but it has that, and it looks amazing. i cant say if this is better than the old one, but it is definitely more faithful to the games appearance. both the color change, and the skin color, are the same as the game, so to that extent its more accurate. this mod allows you to change almost anything about a character's appearance, from the color of their eyes to their face to their hair. this mod also comes with a bunch of pre-made skins for you to choose from, and you can even make your own custom skins. there are a lot of options available here, allowing you to make your character look the way you want it to look. this mod is compatible with both the base game and the dlcs. the beauty of the "beauty texture overhaul" mod is that it will change the appearance of every npc in skyrim. it does not, however, affect gameplay, so if you don't like the look of the characters, you can just keep using vanilla. the mod is compatible with the base game, dawnguard, and hearthfire. you can see which textures are being replaced by which meshes by looking in the preview window, or just by inspecting the meshes in game. it replaces over 15,000 different textures and meshes, and is easily the most extensive overhaul of the npc textures in the history of the elder
