Antisense oligonucleotides against the S protein of the severe acute respiratory syndrome coronavirus, a cytopathic agent for cell culture systems.

Respiratory infections caused by Coronaviridae cause considerable morbidity and mortality worldwide. The severe acute respiratory syndrome coronavirus (SARS-CoV) is a newly emerging Coronaviridae agent that causes respiratory and occasionally extrapulmonary disorders. The aim of this study was to determine whether an antisense approach to gene knockdown could prevent SARS-CoV infection. An antisense oligonucleotide to the SARS-CoV S protein, designed to hybridize to the sequence

5'-CCCGCAGGCTCTTCGAGCTTCC-3', was able to inhibit infection of Vero E6 cells with a recombinant SARS-CoV expressing green fluorescent protein (GFP). The hybridized oligonucleotide was an effective inhibitor of SARS-CoV gene expression, but not in the presence of a control oligonucleotide, with a 60% inhibition of GFP fluorescence when used at a concentration of 500 ng/ml and a maximum inhibition of 100% at 1000 ng/ml. Inclusion of the blocking oligonucleotide at 8 h following infection of the target cells with GFP-expressing SARS-CoV prevented the cytopathic effect of the virus. However, inclusion of the oligonucleotide after the cells had been infected with SARS-CoV for 3 days was insufficient to prevent the cytopathic effect of the virus. These findings demonstrate that the antisense oligonucleotide to SARS-CoV S protein blocks replication of the virus in the cytoplasm in cell culture systems.

was it meant to be this way? is it something that has grown into unavoidable in order to keep track of, or to contact our friends, family, and even our colleagues? let us ponder these questions first. we never see our friends or family face to face, so a call becomes impossible. where the call is no longer a call but now a form of communication through text messages, or through emails, we rarely get to express what we want to express, and more importantly we don't get to see them face to face. we were meant to know each other by just a look, or even by a simple touch, but now we can't express such, because our friends are unaware of what we want to express.
