

Best Natural Shampoo for Dogs with Itchy, Flaky Skin

HAIRCARE FOR DOGS

There is nothing worse than seeing or hearing your dog scratching themselves constantly. Owning a dog with itchy, flaky skin is never a pleasant situation. It means your dog is not in top form and you no doubt will be feeling sorry for them. There are certain things you can do to soothe their skin, without going to the vet.

The first thing to try is a moisturising, pH balanced shampoo and conditioner. Several things can cause itchy skin in dogs, and dog shampoo is an essential part of cleansing and nourishing their skin. Dog shampoo should always be chosen carefully. In addition to buying dog shampoo, a compatible dog conditioner is also necessary to protect your pet's coat and skin and give it that luxurious shine. Here, we will discuss the best natural shampoo for dogs with itchy skin.

Why Pet dogs have Itchy Skin?

For dogs, scratching is a normal and integral part of grooming, just like licking and biting. But what if your dog just doesn't stop scratching? This behaviour can be motivated by fear or boredom, but there may also be a physical cause. In both cases, constant scratching is a sign that your dog is trying to relieve an irritation. Flea allergy, dermatitis, seasonal allergies or atopy, food allergies, contact dermatitis (such as soaps & perfumes), and scabies (mites) are some of the most common causes of itching in dogs.

Shampoo for Dogs with Itchy Skin

When it comes to the best natural shampoo for dogs with itchy skin, gentle and effective ingredients should clean your dog's coat and skin without further irritation. It does not necessarily need to lather well, as soap-free formulas are the best (bubbles do not mean clean), and will rinse easily so that no shampoo residue is left on your dog's coat. These following factors are most important-

- Ingredients- That all ingredients present in the shampoo should be safe. Full disclosure of ingredients is also a good sign... Caution towards those shampoo brands that do not disclose their ingredients is a must.
- Smell-The smell of shampoo for the puppy's itchy skin should not be overpowering. Dog's noses are so much more sensitive than human noses, so always keep this in mind. Fragrances should be lighter but longer lasting.
- Application- A shampoo that is opaque (not clear) will be a more nourishing shampoo and soap-free formulas will not lather too much, rather a silky foam which washes away dirt and grime easily.
- Effectiveness – This shampoo will leave all dog breeds clean - without harsh chemicals, nourishing and moisturising without damaging your dog's natural oil equilibrium (pH balance). Remember to always follow a shampoo with conditioner to lock in moisture to protect skin and fur.
- Packaging- This product comes in a tightly sealed bottle with no added plastic. Pump packs for ease of use in the shower or bath is also an added advantage.
